

ARCH E

The European Platform for Architectural Design Competitions.

Architectural Design Competitions (ADCs) are crucial for creating a safe, fair, sustainable, inclusive, and beautiful built environment. However, due to national frameworks and a lack of information sharing, transnational participation in ADCs is relatively low, which excludes many architects from participating and hinders competition.

That's where ARCH-E comes in, as the European Platform for transnational networking and circulation of architectural expertise. Co-funded by the European Union under the Creative Europe framework, ARCH-E promotes high-quality architectural solutions by boosting the use of ADCs in Europe and overcoming cross-border market barriers in architectural services.
